YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

It took ten innings for the Chicago Colts to win the second championship game of the season from the Cardinals. Alded by misplays on the part of Williams and Farrell, the Colts prenced to victory by a score

The Cardinals, however, made the Colts hustle for the game and not until Donovan new out to Slagle in the fenth inning did rither side have a mortgage on the game. For battery work Donovan chose Yerkes and O'Neill, but when the sixth inning was bench and sent Bob Wicker out for relief

Wicker was an improvement on Yerkes but he weakened in the tenth inning, and the Celts took advantage of the let-down to score the winning run of the game. Weimer, who started out to pitch for the

Colts, looked as though he was going to give the locals their first coat of white-warh, and for five innings did no. allow the locals a run. Up to this period the locals only secured two safe drives off his

In the sixth inning the Cardinals pulled off a pretty double steal, Williams boodling second, while Smoot pilfered third. Williams, however, was caught alumbering a moment inter between second and third and did not awake until Shortstop Byers placed the ball on him.

In the first inning, Donovan pulled off a sensational fielding play and one that saved the Cardinals from a worse drubbing than they received. With Kling on base, Dobbs toppled over one of Verkes's slants that looked good for at least two bases. Donovan, however, started with the crack of the bat and by making a long dive for the sphere, managed to scoop it off the ground. Donovan rolled over twice in making the catch, but he froze to the ball, retiring the side on the play.

In the sixth inning the Cardinals went after Weimer's curves and clouted out four runs, aided by an error of Davy Jones in right field.

Both clubs fielded poorly, the Cardinals being charged with five errors, while the Colts feld down on three easy plays. Farrell, at second for St. Louis, played finger billiards with the ball three times. His exhibition at the middle pillow revived memories of the graceful way Hartmann and Krueger could fail down on easy plays.

BURKE MAKES APPEARANCE. Jimms Burke took "Decreots" Rarciay's place at left field, and, aithough he is charged with an error, it was one of the most excusable kind. At the hat, however, Rurke distinguished himself, and secured two bingles out of his four trips to the pan. The also stele a base, and his exhibition, taken all in all, was meritorious. At about 19:60 a. m., when nearly a mile off shore, she went about on the starboard tack to stand up to cross the line, when a sudden gust of wind sweeping out of Weymouth Bay struck the gacht and completely dismantled her. away close to the deck and with them went her spars, sails and gearing in a confused mass of wreckage.

The yacht's decks were crowded with Sir Thomas Lipton's guests, officers and men, and it seemed impossible that the disaster was not attended by serious loss of life.

Sir Thomas Lipton informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that he expects to be ready to fulfill his engagement off Sandy Hook August 20.

"The whole thing," said Sir Thomas, "was ro sudden that I have not yet had time to realize the full extent of the damage. I heard only a ripping sound forward and then the whole structure wavered. While it was still swaying I was knocked down the hatchway and through the flooring. When I serambled on deck again the whole cainstrophe was over. The accident will possibly delay us a month, but I can't say until I can see Fife, who is already on his way here?.

Colonel D. K. Neil, the representative of Sir Thomas on board the Shamnock I, attributed the geddent solely to the unsuspected weakness of one of the rigging screws. He did not think there was any evidence of insufficient strength in the mast. The Erin's doctor reported that the inviters of the men were slight.

During the work of raising the mast it buckled again, owing to the weight of the canvas making three distinct breaks. The challenger was finally cleared of wreckage and was towed into the harbor. News of the accident was telegraphed to King Edward at Valetta. Island of Malta, and Sir Thomas afterwards received a message of sympathy from the King.

the refitting would not militate against the getting a divorce from his first wife. She was a handsome blonde with a noticeably fine complexion and it was she who watched her hushand's fight at Carsen City, and, according to the popular reports at the time, encouraged his leads at Corbett by telling him to "Hit him in the shata." She and Bob were inseparable except for occasional little tiffs.

There was one time, for instance, in Washington, when Mrs. Fitzsimmons refused to kiss her husband when the time came for it in their play. She was jealous of an understudy who had taken her part and kissed, not wisely, but too well.

Fitzsimmons made such a row that he was arrested. Mrs. Fitzsimmons felt so sorry for him that she took the train out of town, in order not to appear against him the next day.

She was an acrobat before she married Bob. Her name was Resalle Julie Lamwell and she, too, was a native of Australia. On the stage she was known as Rosel Julian. As Mrs. Fitzsimmons once said, in an interview, she had "been on the stage from the time she was 5 years old until Saturday night before she married Bob.

While Fitzsimmons was training for his fight with Corbett Mrs. Fitzsimmons was with him and prepared all his food for him. Being an acrobat herself, she was much interested in all the details of his training. That was the first fight where Mrs. Fitzsimmons sat right out in the open, where he could see her. She said afterwards that she was greatly embarrassed.

few exceptions they are worse in spring and summer when the system begins to thaw out and the skin is reacting and making extra efforts to throw off the poisons that have accumulated during the winter months.
